

Food and Financial Resources

Below are some food and financial resources that are still open during the pandemic.

Food Banks and Meal Programs

Food banks and meal programs are still open, but they have changed how they run to promote physical distancing. Most offer pre-packaged meals or food hampers. Some need people to call and book an appointment in advance. Visit the Hamilton Food Share website for the latest updates on locations and hours of operation.

Most community meal programs are operating by handing out bagged meals at the same times that people would regularly be used to. Here's the list and contact info.

Canada Emergency Response Benefit (CERB)

The federal government has announced a new plan to provide support to those who have lost their income because of COVID-19.

This is a taxable benefit of $2,000 per month for up to 4 months. It is available to:

- workers who had to stop working because of COVID-19 and do not have access to paid leave or other income support.
- workers who are sick, quarantined, or taking care of someone who is sick with COVID-19.
- working parents who must stay home without pay to care for children that are sick or need additional care because of school and daycare closures.
- workers who still have their employment but are not being paid because there is not enough work and their employer has asked them not to come to work.
- wage earners and self-employed individuals, including contract workers, who would not otherwise be eligible for Employment Insurance.

How to apply:

- Applications will start in early April
- Apply online or by telephone (a 1-800 number will be announced)
- Payments will begin 10 days after application
- Benefit is available from March 15 to October 3, 2020
- Those who have already applied for EI do not need to re-apply

To prepare to receive the CERB benefit, make sure direct deposit is set up with the Canada Revenue Agency. You can do that by setting up an account, if you haven't already, and logging in to the website.

Rent

The province of Ontario has suspended evictions in the current health emergency. This is the number for the Ontario Landlord Tenant Board that handles tenants' rights: 1-888-332-3234.

Mortgage

You can apply to have your mortgage payments deferred. Contact your bank directly for more information.

Other Benefits

Here is a detailed chart that outlines other benefits that you may be eligible for, and how to apply.
